THE INTERESTING STORY OF A UNIQUE BUSINESS

FORTY-SEVEN YEARS AGO a youngster with an ingenious mind conceived the idea of building small houses in a new way — completely in sections, that could be shipped anywhere, that could be erected by anyone in a few hours' time without the use of nails — simply bolted together.

Soon this ingenious young pioneer, Ernest F. Hodgson, built himself this small factory and equipped it with machinery. Thus was born the business that has grown in these forty years to such tremendous proportions.

This same inventive man, E. F. Hodgson, is still its active head.

Mr. Hodgson at first made small houses for all sorts of purposes, dog houses, poultry houses, tool houses; then one room camp houses, and soon came camps of several rooms.

But it was in the glamorous day of 1900, when that marvelous invention, the "horseless carriage", came into use that the business gained great momentum.

At that time came the demand for "Auto Stables", as they were called. The use of the automobile also brought an increased demand for the Hodgson camp and vacation houses. This demand for garages and

This Hodgson Camp of 5 rooms was exhibited at the Sportsmen's Show, New York, in 1906 and purchased there by Mrs. Nelson

After 32 years Mrs. Nelson, who erected this house at Moosehead Lake in 1907, is still using it camps came from all parts of the country, and indeed from many foreign countries. There are Hodgson houses in South Africa; in Jerusalem; in Greece; in Belgium; in Italy; in South America; in Nicaragua; in Honolulu; in Newfoundland; Labrador, and many other foreign parts.

We know that many of the houses first built by Mr. Hodgson are still in use. For instance, the one purchased in 1905 by Denman Thompson, the famous actor. Also the one purchased by the Grenfell Association many years ago, erected at Indian Head Harbor, Labrador, is still in use.

Mr. Hodgson has kept in step with modern progress. Improvements in construction, materials and finish have been constantly made from year to year, so that today our houses are unique in appearance and construction.

The picture shown in this article of a house purchased in bygone days has an historical interest and demonstrates the originality of Mr. Hodgson's idea.

The illustrations of the houses being made today demonstrate the continued value of his achievement. These illustrations are from actual photographs, and will give you a very good idea of the appearance of our Houses. If you can call at one of our salesrooms or outdoor exhibits it will be a pleasure to show you the houses themselves.

Prefabricated Camp Cottages

*Built Complete at the Factory—Saving Time and Money—Scientifically Constructed to Ship Anywhere—Used Universally—Delightful to Live in—
Made of Materials to Last a Lifetime—Quickly Erected—Easily Enlarged*

ILLUSTRATED ON PAGES 5 to 25 are the Hodgson Camp Cottages, a product of over 47 years of prefabricated house construction.

The exterior of these houses is made of enduring red cedar, with the sides oiled, the roof and shutters stained Cabot's moss green.

The interior has a tan colored waterproof and wind-proof fibre lining, with woodwork stained brown. The floors are of shellacked hard pine. The partitions are made of Celotex.

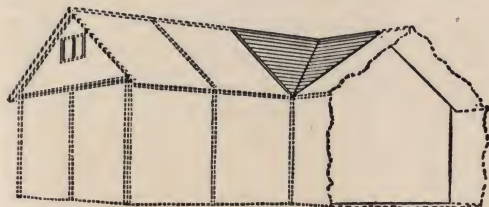

The houses are built in completed sections at the factory — sides, roofs and floors. Windows are fitted in place and doors are hung. The sections are shipped so completely fabricated that the smallest houses can be erected, with the use of our special key bolts, in a few hours' time; the larger houses in a few days' time.

These houses are used for cottages, vacation houses, both summer and winter; school camps, overnight camps, guest or overflow houses; for many uses in large camps where small buildings are needed; also for play houses, skating houses, rest houses, storage houses, garages, etc.

The Exterior Woodwork is dipped in tanks of linseed oil before being made up into sections. Roof and shutters stained moss green. All Outside Nails are hot-dipped galvanized and the hardware is either brass or cadmium plated, thus preventing rust.

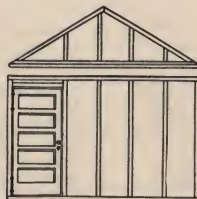

Sections are bolted together with our special Wedge Key Bolts, an invention of ours dating back 40 years.

With 47 years' experience in making unit built houses, we know that these Camp Houses are as practical as it is possible to make.

The Frames are of strong Oregon pine and cedar. The Outside Covering is of enduring cedar, which will last a lifetime.

We use thousands of these each year, saving our customers much expense in the erection of our buildings.

The Interior is lined with a heavy tan fibre, waterproof and windproof, making a very dry camp. Woodwork is stained walnut brown. Floors are hard pine and shelled. Exterior sides are oiled natural wood with roofs, doors and shutters stained moss green.

Exposed On A High Hill

"Visitors have been impressed not only with the charm of the house, but with its stability as well. During the September 21st cyclone which visited New England and wrought so much damage, our Hodgson House, standing here on this exposed hilltop, over 1000 feet above sea level, did not suffer the slightest damage and was steady all through the storm.

"We had a most comfortable winter here, and with our competent oil burner in the cellar maintained a temperature of about 70 degrees when the thermometer outside registered 15 and 20 degrees below zero."

CHARLES EDEY FAY

Because of a production schedule in these Camp Cottages it is necessary to make a $5 charge for any changes in the sections shown.

Treated cedar foundation posts cost 20 cts. lin. ft., a 10 x 10 ft. camp will require 30 lineal feet, costs $6.00.

Interiors

The interiors of our Camp Cottages are lined with a special waterproof and windproof tan colored fibre lining, which is not only pleasing in appearance, but makes them practical to use for weekends and holidays through the late fall and early winter, with a fireplace or one of our fireplace stoves. The wood framework is exposed, and stained a dark walnut. The partitions are of Celotex, with stained wood trim. The whole effect is pleasing, livable, and affords a natural background for almost any type of furniture.

Being constructed almost entirely of Cedar, the air is always "sweet," regardless of how long the Camp has been closed. There is never that "musty" odor, so often found in the conventional type of Camp construction.

Fireplaces are built after the camp is erected

"Your man arrived on time, stuck with the job faithfully until it was completed, was courteous, cheerful, industrious, and in every way satisfactory. We got the cottage up by 6:15, and there followed one of the worst wind and rain storms we have ever had at this time of the year.

"On the next morning we went up to see if the cottage was still there, and found it still standing without a leak of any kind anywhere. I think we are going to get a great deal of pleasure out of it."

On pages 22 through 25 are shown Hodgson Camp Cottages made up with the use of two of our valley roof units.

These two-valley roof houses form an "H" and have always proved extremely popular, due to the fact that the Living Room is in the center, the Bed-rooms being located in one wing, while the Service quarters are on the opposite side.

By use of the "H" design the houses are architecturally balanced, and almost double the number of rooms can be laid out on a lot of small frontage.

This very attractive Court, formed by the two wings of an "H" style house, includes an outdoor fireplace built into the main house chimney

Hodgson Houses

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

FOR over forty-seven years Hodgson Houses have held a unique position in all parts of the world. Their inviting simplicity and harmonious lines appeal to people of good taste. With their attractive and well-planned interiors, they have given enjoyment to people in all sorts of circumstances, and climate, under the most trying conditions. The construction is simple. Made of enduring red cedar, in completely finished sections with windows in place, doors hung—in fact, all carpentry work and exterior painting completed at the factory; and even the hard pine floors are sanded and shellacked before shipping; so that the houses are quickly erected by local labor; or by our factory men. Thus the purchasers of Hodgson Houses are saved much time, expense and the confusion and many worries connected with building operations.

The interiors of these houses are of Celotex, the woodwork finished in a dark walnut stain; or the interior can be left unfinished by us so that purchaser can paint or paper walls as desired. The construction is of the double wall type, with a dead air space between the inner and outer walls. Celotex, we believe one of the best insulators today, is used on the side walls, ceilings, partitions, and under the floors, thus giving a cool house in summer and more comfortable in the coldest weather than a well built plastered house.

If interested in one of these larger houses send for our large catalog showing many pictures of our houses and plans.

The house pictured on opposite page, with plans below, is one of the smallest we make in our regular house construction. It makes an excellent studio; a retreat for an out-of-the-way spot; a very satisfactory guest or overflow house; or a play house. With our double wall construction it is a cool and inviting little house for summer, and one that can be easily heated in winter.

"In the Tidal Wave at Buzzards Bay—"

"I think you may be interested in the bit of the following history of one of your houses that I have used for over ten summers.

"It stands about 100 ft. back from the quiet water of Buttermilk Bay at Buzzards Bay, Mass., on a bank about 15 ft. above the water. The day of the 1938 hurricane it took the full blast of the wind and tidal wave coming straight down the bay. The wave not only came at it from the front but rolled in through the back and side through a thick wooded land, washing everything before it, logs, branches, 'junk,' etc.

"The water rose all around the house about six feet, with 6 inches of water covering the entire house inside. When all was over and the water receded the house was surrounded by almost everything you could think of, 6 boats, pillars from houses, doors, parts of board walks, logs I couldn't move, chairs, barrels and just about everything else. I had to take a shovel and dig a path to the front door that was two feet of solid — well, we call it just plain 'junk.'

"The interesting end of this tale is, that not one floor buckled, nor did the house move so much as half an inch on its cedar posts with all the punishment it took, and after it was all cleaned and fixed up, is now as good as ever.

"Do you wonder that I am very keen on Hodgson Portable houses? I would never want any other house for a summer home!

"Hoping this may interest any person who may think a Portable is not solid and feeling sure you will be glad to know what one of them took so well."

From among the many designs of Hodgson Houses shown in our large catalog, this small Hodgson Cape Cod was chosen to typify our line in this style of Architecture. The photograph at the lower right is of the same type of house, but has one of our Colonial Entrance Porches added to it.

Entirely insulated for year-around use, they are remarkably cool in summer, easily and economically heated during the winter.

If interested in a Cape Cod house, let us plan one for you. We can meet your every requirement, regardless of how large, or how small, your needs may be.

For those requiring a house of more and larger rooms than those shown on the preceding page, yet wanting the quaint, Cape Cod architecture, we offer this plan. Our Unit system is so flexible that it is possible to plan a house of almost any number and size rooms. The house illustrated may be created in an even larger size, or we can plan it with fewer or smaller rooms, as required.

One of the most popular types of houses pre-fabricated by us during these many years, is that of our "H" shape, illustrated on opposite page and as per plan below. Constructed with the living room in the center, bed rooms in one wing, the other a service wing, it offers at least two outside exposures to each room — making a cool, breezy house during the summer, yet fully insulated for winter use, if desired.

BIDDLE, WHELEN & CO.

"First with regard to the bungalow which was put through its first real baptism of fire when I went up grouse shooting last week. The little house is on top of the Hogback Ridge and the wind and rain whipped across with hurricane force; besides it was bitter cold. Not a breath of air or a drop of rain leaked in and the little Franklin stove kept the big front room as warm as toast. I may say that it will give me real pleasure to recommend your houses and equipment without reservation to anyone. We have had the greatest pleasure and satisfaction out of it last summer and this fall."

Bonfield—Oxford, Talbot County, Maryland

"For some years now I have been using Hodgson Houses of various types, both in Maryland and in Florida.

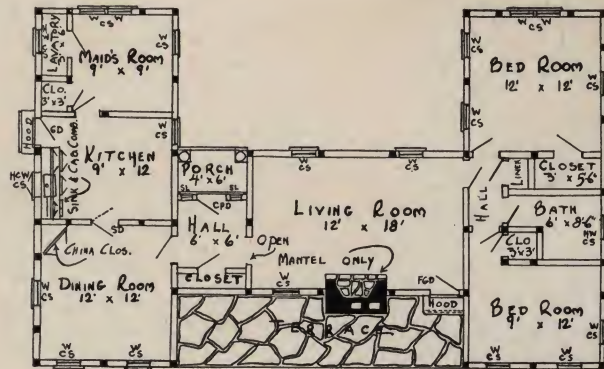

"They are satisfactory, livable, and efficient living equipment, and I take pleasure in saying so. After considerable experience with various types of ready-built houses I have no hesitation in saying that the Hodgson House constitutes the most reasonable and practical type of ready made dwelling on the market.

"Furthermore, it is a pleasure to deal with your firm."

HERVEY ALLEN.

The Hodgson House in the upper left hand corner was purchased by the owner several years ago. Recently he purchased additional units, making it into the house that is shown on Page 40, as per plan below.

Such additions can be made in an incredibly short time, and most important, they blend into the surroundings without disturbing the harmony of the original house — and this without the litter or fuss that usually accompanies additions.

Plan No. 4005

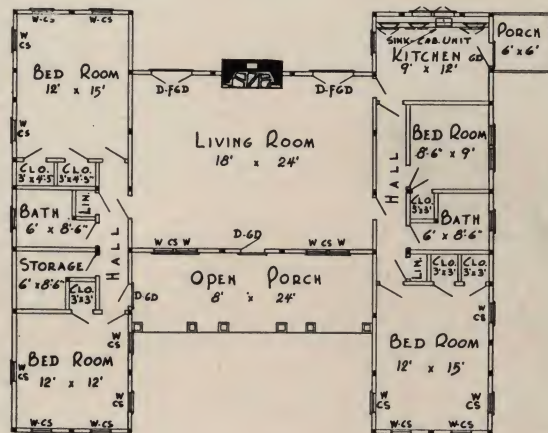

In this style of "H" house, we have used the 12-foot wings, but increased the center portion of the house to 18 feet, making a much larger living room. Living rooms in this type of house can be had as wide as 24 feet, and in length anything desired, in multiples of 6 feet. The wing arrangement of rooms can be easily changed, to meet your requirements.

On the Shore of Long Island

"Our Hodgson House apparently withstood the recent hurricane without any damage at all. It is located about 75 yards from the shore of Long Island Sound, but on high ground, so that the water did not reach it. The house is also well protected by a thick high hedge and trees. Nevertheless, it did take a hard beating from rain and wind without injury, in spite of this protection."

Here is another plan in our "H" design. This house, made up of the wider, eighteen foot units, illustrates the large, comfortable rooms that can be planned with these larger units. Spacious, attractive and well insulated, the houses are cool and inviting in the summer, warm and cheerful during the winter months.

HURRICANE FURIOUS AT SOUTHAMPTON

"My Hodgson House weathered the recent hurricane in great shape and it struck at our place in Southampton as furious as it did any other place in the East. I was in the house during the blow and my barometer read 26.80 which tells the story. Several of the shutters ripped off, but that was all."

Another popular Hodgson design. This low rambling, well insulated house, located at our Dover, Mass., Exhibit, has large, airy rooms, each with two, some three, outside exposures, making it an ideal summer home.

It contains many spacious closets, and the kitchen and service quarters are entirely isolated from the living portions of the house.

E. J. STEICHEN

Plan No. 4009

This popular type of Hodgson House makes use of the two wings, as in the "H" style houses, but the service wing is set in back — a gable to gable connection being employed, for the dining room.

This gives a little more outside exposure to both living and dining rooms, and goes toward making a very attractive exterior. This type of plan can be had with fewer and smaller rooms, or many more rooms than those shown by the plan below.

A house of this type is on display in our New York Show Rooms.

"The Hodgson camp house located in Swansea, Mass., was right in the middle of the storm area, and while trees blew down all around it there was no substantial injury to the house. Two or three of the screens were damaged slightly and one of the garage doors was injured.

MAJOR EDWARD BOWES

These Greenhouses are made of red cedar. The exterior woodwork is painted white sides with a slate green on the roof of the Heater Room. The interior woodwork receives one coat of aluminum paint. The Greenhouses are made in sections, so that they are easily erected and easily added to.

No wooden floor is supplied as a cement, brick or dirt floor is much more practical. Bricks simply laid in sand make an excellent floor. Plant benches as shown by plans are supplied; also a plank board walk between benches.

We show below sketches of the various sizes of heater and potting rooms which we supply, with their prices. We also give prices (Page 59) of the first glass unit and of additional glass units. Any number of glass units may be added to any of the heating and potting rooms.

Greenhouse Heating

Our Greenhouses are heated by automatically controlled, coal fired hot water heaters. They are connected to four lines of pipes, that are installed under the benches, and make a complete circuit of the greenhouse.

The heaters are equipped with an expansion tank, so that they do not have to be connected to any outside water supply; simply fill the line and tank, and it should not have to be touched for a season.

Listed below are three stock greenhouse heaters. The No. 512 is suitable for heating one or two glass units; the No. 514, three to four glass Units; and the No. 516, four to six glass Units.

Two Greenhouse Units and Heater Room

One of these greenhouses will start thousands of early plants to be set out after the frost is gone. The operating of our heating plant is very simple.

Our No. 512 heater will easily heat these two units, but if you intend to add more units later we would recommend the use of our larger heater, which will heat up to four glass units. This would eliminate the expense of changing the heater should you enlarge the greenhouse. The larger heater would add $17.00 to the price of $172.00 quoted below.

Grows Many Plants

"The greenhouse has not only proved entirely satisfactory but is a prodigy of efficiency. All the flowers we can possibly use at Anchorhold and Friars Wood — many of our vegetables, and a great quantity to give away — are successfully started there. And it takes care of the rarer plants through the winter. It is hard to believe that so very much can come out of such a small greenhouse."

BLARNEY KENNELS

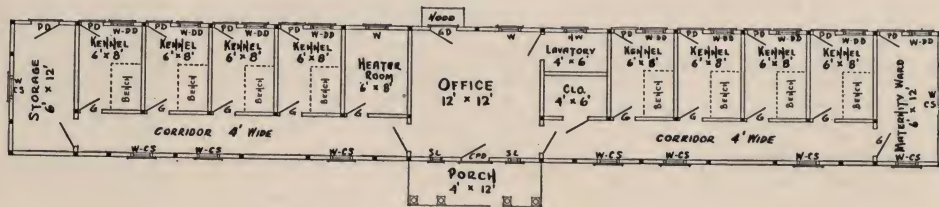

"It gives me great pleasure to write you and let you know that the large kennel and the cottage which I bought from you years ago have given me complete satisfaction.

JOHN G. BATES,
James St., Morristown, New Jersey

Price of this Kennel, $2,865. If double walls are desired, add $561. Add for wide Colonial Siding $160.

This Kennel, made up of our stock Plan B No. 4 kennel Units with office, has in addition, a separate heater room, feed room, storage, etc. The plan below shows how this kennel is arranged. It is well laid out, entirely self-contained, and it is unnecessary to have separate buildings for maternity ward, office, etc.

When planning a kennel, let us know your requirements and we will work in any special features that you may have in mind.

The above photograph is the rear view of the Clairdale Kennels, showing the dog runs and a two-unit greenhouse as a sun room. For front view, see Page 71.

This special kennel is made up of our 12 ft. and 18 ft. wide house units, with the double wall construction, sheathing and celotex being used on the interior.

There is a ceiling over the entire building. The hard pine floors are double boarded.

This Kennel contains almost every conceivable idea that can be created for the care and comfort of dogs. Any one, or all, of the details shown in the plan may be incorporated in any of our Kennels and we should be pleased to send you plans and estimates worked up to your own ideas.

CLAIRDALE KENNELS—DURING 1938 HURRICANE

"We lost a great many large trees but suffered no building damage. I might add that during the height of the storm I went through the kennel and found all of the windows open. I immediately had them closed. I honestly believe there would have been no damage had I not seen that the windows were open and they had remained in that position."

W. O. PENNEY, Riverhead, N. Y.

"The Bungalow Bird House arrived last week. I thought you would be interested to know that before I had finished setting the pole in the ground there were a dozen swallows flying around to make an inspection of the house. They seemed to like it very much.

"I got a lot of pleasure out of watching these swallows and I now have three houses full of them. Not only are they fun to watch but they destroy the swarms of bugs of which there are many in this region."

J. CRATE LARKIN

"It is satisfactory in every possible way. In fact, we had a young hurricane in our yard a couple of years ago that pretty nearly ruined the place but it did not even joggle the little Hodgson house. I cannot say enough for them."

"I can send you snapshots later."
